

Robert Peterson is a leading exponent of the new methodology for training young bassists. A graduate of the University of the Arts in Philadelphia with degrees in performing and education, Mr. Peterson plays professionally as principal bassist of the Bohème Opera Company and assistant principal in the Delaware Valley Philharmonic and the Trenton Symphony. His teachers have included Robert Cerulli, Neil Courtney, Robert Riccardi, Homer Mensch and most recently François Rabbath. Mr. Peterson runs a very successful school orchestra program in Princeton, New Jersey.